Revised 2024.02

Toyota's

Gohei-Mochi

Gohei-mochi is often thought of as common nationwide, but the region where gohei-mochi can be found is actually limited to an area that spans the prefectures of Aichi, Gifu, and Nagano.

In regards to the origin of gohei-mochi, it is thought that the former Ida Kaido (also known as Chuma Kaido or Shio-no-Michi) trade route between Mikawa and Minami Shinshu played an important role in introducing this mountain food culture known as gohei-mochi.

From the prevalence of gohei-mochi and connections with this trade route, the Toyota area can be called a highly likely origin point.

The History of
Gohei-Mochi

Toyota Gohei-Mochi Society

This organization was established in 2010 by Mr. Kiyoe Noda of Noda Miso Co. for the purpose of researching and spreading gohei-mochi food culture. Together with 55 gohei-mochi stores in Toyota City, the society works to promote gohei-mochi as a local specialty and revitalize the region. Gohei-mochi is recognized by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology as a "100-Year Food" for its local culinary culture treasured over generations.
